

Well Dressed

People judge other people by their clothes. It may be wrong, probably in some cases. It is every woman's right to be well dressed. It is every woman's right to be as well dressed as she can be. If she can't feel that she is properly clothed she can't be comfortable; can't enjoy herself, or take her proper part in the affairs of life.

How.

The problem is, how to be well dressed on little money. The first thing is to find the right store to buy from. Money is only good for what it will buy. It is worth most where it will buy most.

Where.

We don't believe there's a better place in America for Liverpool ladies to buy goods than right in our store. In buying and selling we have the interest of our patrons in mind, as well as our own, and we try to gain trade by deserving it.

When.

Now's the time to begin to look about for fall and winter goods. There certainly never was a time that we had so good a stock, and prices so low. The new fall dress goods, cloaks and trimmings are all in stock awaiting your inspection at

IN COUNCIL AND COLUMN

The Rechabites Talk and March In One Day.

THE ORDER HAS A GOOD GROWTH

Fourteen Tents Were Added Last Year. Committees Appointed—East Liverpool Well Represented—The Parade Was a Success—One Delegate Who is a Candidate For Congress.

The Rechabites had it all their own way in the city last evening, and surprised the general public by the energy and force displayed.

The high tent convened at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and after passing through the interesting ceremony of conferring the degree of the tent upon such as had not received it, began the real work of the meeting. When the committees were announced they were found to be made up as follows:

Credentials—E. H. Wands, Ithica, N. Y.; L. F. Quigley, Zanesville; William Reynolds, Noraway, Mich.

High chief ruler's address—B. H. Poe, Roseville; E. W. Kirby, Washington; J. H. Mills, Liverpool.

Accounts—T. J. Jackson, Liverpool; George Vaughn, Zanesville; T. M. Hoynes, Ithica.

Appeals—W. C. Conley, Roseville; L. G. Dover, Zanesville; J. C. Lee, Tacoma, Md.

Ritual—S. C. Coleman, T. J. Jackson, George Smith, all of Liverpool. State of the order—E. W. Kirby, Washington; B. H. Poe, Roseville; J. H. Mills, Liverpool.

Constitution and law—W. H. Marriott, Washington; R. W. Johnson, Washington; G. M. Rabbitt, Akron. Insurance—Ira Stillwell, E. H. Wands and L. F. Quigley.

With this routine work out of the way the tent could get down to work, and there was no disposition to waste valuable time. High Chief Ruler Coleman made his report, which reflected great credit upon him as the head of the order. It contained so many cheering features that the delegates could not but see how well advanced they are and the rapid progress now being made. J. R. Mahoney, who is the high chief secretary-treasurer of the order, also had a few words to say in the way of a report, and showed that during the year 14 tents had been added to their number, and the prospects were flattering in the extreme. J. C. Lee, high grand lecturer and visitor was the next to report, and he pleasingly told the assembly how he had moved from place to place encouraging members of the order and showing its beauties to those who had not yet entered. By his individual efforts a number of tents were organized, and the fame of the order spread. It required two hours to lay these important matters before the tent, and at the close of the meeting preparations were made for the parade. This is always an interesting feature, and the local organizations had done everything to make it a success. Some delay was experienced before the head of the procession began to move, but when the march was taken up all the spectators were amply repaid for the delay. Order of procession:

Police.

Haynes' Band.
Favorite Tent.
Grand Officers.
Girls' Band.
Silver Star Tent.
Lady Rechabites.

While it was generally believed in the city that there would be no parade because of the weather, many persons were on the streets, and saw the splendid column go by. Those who knew nothing of it were roused by the bands and the order was well received everywhere. They presented a splendid appearance. All the marchers were in regalia, and looked their very best.

After traversing the principal streets the column disbanded in the Diamond, and J. C. Lee was introduced to the large crowd that had gathered by Will Crawford. His theme was temperance, and he spoke more to members of the order than the general public. Hedwelt upon the enormous proportions the liquor traffic has assumed, and compared the beauties of a temperance life with the horrors of drunkenness. The address was eloquent and logical, the speaker appealing to all that was good in the many people who heard him. Tomorrow evening he will address a meeting in Wells-ville, and he proposes to wade into the Republican and Democratic parties, as he is a Prohibitionist as well as a Rechabite, being a candidate for congress in the Fifth district of Maryland.

Last evening the visitors were entertained by Favorite tent, and spent a most delightful evening. Six candidates had been proposed for admission, and they took the ordeal to the complete satisfaction of the large number present who have witnessed many initiations in other tents. The strong fraternal feeling that exists in the order made it possible for the evening to be passed pleasantly, but the strangers did not lose sight of the fact that the Rechabites here deserve credit for the manner in which they do the work, and congratulations covered them when the meeting was over.

This morning the members of the tent prepared for another day of hard work, and began to appear around headquarters at a comparatively early hour. Committees were at work and strangers were shaking hands with friends they had not seen since their arrival in town. Yesterday afternoon E. W. Glenn and E. A. Hill, two prominent members of the order forsook the gaities of Pittsburg and came here, while T. B. Marche had arrived from Washington. The first session convened at the appointed time, and a number of resolutions of more or less importance were introduced. George W. Glenn, George Vaughn and George Rabbitt were appointed a special committee to look after the matter of new emblems, and the insurance feature of the order was discussed. Nothing definite was decided upon, and it went over until some future time while the tent talked of sending out more paid lecturers. This consumed the time until noon when the tent adjourned.

At 1 o'clock the meeting was again called to work, and the Rechabites are still in session. The official roster will not be given out until the high tent acts upon it. Tonight a great many of the delegates will attend the concert in the Grand.

PAYING BILLS.

Claims Committee Keeps up Miss Liverpool's Credit.

Claims committee had a lot of work to do last night, and passed through the bills presented in a business like manner.

The third payment on the new ladder truck was ordered, and the bill for the publication of the revised ordinances was paid. When the electric light bill came up it was found that a reduction had been made according to the objection of council, and it is believed that it will be ordered paid tonight. The money from the late sale of bonds, some $30,000, arrived last week, and is in the treasury. The following were the bills ordered:

Theatrical Attractions.

The "Colonel" is the next attraction at the Grand, coming on Thursday evening. The play is good, and the players are all that could be asked. Manager Orr has fixed the price of the last rows of seats down stairs at 35 cents for the season.

The Elks are preparing for their benefit, and it is expected that a great crowd will be at the "Charity Ball." The company is known as one of the best, and the piece has amused hundreds of critical audiences.

That Base Ball League.

The minor base ball league which is being pushed by Jack Glascock, will likely be made up of teams from Wheeling, Canton, Columbus, Mansfield and Findlay. They would like to have East Liverpool in the combination, and it may be that an effort will be made to organize a club here. There is little doubt that good base ball material in abundance can be found in town, and if East Liverpool becomes a member it would not be on the tail end at the close of the season.

WINNIE MERCER WINS

The Liverpool Boy Knows How to Play Ball,

AND ALL THE CLUBS WANT HIM

He is a Star in the National League, a Prize For Which Many Managers Have Striven—Unassuming, Gentlemanly and Honest, He is a Boy to Be Proud Of.

George Barclay Mercer, the phenomenal pitcher of the Washington base ball club, is the discovery of the season; the player who has suddenly risen from comparative obscurity to a prominent place among the leading lights of the diamond.

A few months over 20 years ago, a bright eyed baby boy came to grace a happy but humble home in Harrisonville, Harrison county, O. He was much the same as other children, learning to talk and walk after the fashion of all boys raised in that part of the state, although it was marked that the lad cared little for companions except when engaged in some athletic exercise. He always played ball, and when the family came to this city won distinction among younger enthusiasts because of his marked ability and unswerving loyalty to the game. When the old Crookery City club was in the height of its glory and base ball was dear to the heart of the average citizen of East Liverpool, young Mercer was an interested witness of the games, and never forgot what he learned. As he grew older the famous Eclipse team took the field, and the Ceramic City rejoiced with them in victory or mourned with them in defeat. This atmosphere was well calculated to spur the ambition of any boy, and the young ball player doubtless dreamed of the day when enthusiastic thousands would cheer him on to victory. At an early age he became an amateur of no mean merit, and pitched his first game when playing with the Turners in 1891. His fame spread after that contest, and he was attached to the Eclipse team as one of its regular players. At that time he gave promise of what he could reach in the future, and the professional door was soon opened for his entrance into the field which he now honors with his presence. Dover, N. H., was a member of the New England league, and being in search of a pitcher called upon Mercer in 1893. Then he began making records. They heard of him in Boston, and the manager offered $400 for his release, but Dover knew when it had a good drawing card, and the officials refused to let him go. At the end of the season he enlisted under the banner of the Fall River club, and for three weeks astonished New England by his excellent work in a series of exhibition games. When the wintry winds began to blow, and it was far too bleak for him in the cultured but cold atmosphere of the northeast, Mercer came home and remained until spring. Meantime the Washington manager had heard of him. They needed something to move Washington toward the front, and if merit counted for anything this was the man for the place. A few letters, a contract, the scratch of a pen, and it was all over, the Liverpool boy would be given an opportunity before the most critical base ball audiences in the world to prove the promises of his early days. And he has done it well. Today he appears before the public as one of the best pitchers of the National League, while for all around playing he can hold his own with any. Once he played against Philadelphia, and when the score was counted only six hits could be found against his ability. Another time he held Pittsburgh down to eight, and Boston to four. Then Brooklyn could get no more than seven, while Louisville was compelled to get along as best it could with a beggarly two. Cincinnati could do no better than four and New York worked hard before it caught him for eight. Then the base ball world began to talk. In Mercer they saw a treasure. The managers began to scheme, for almost all of them wanted him. Cleveland came forward with an offer of $5,000 for his release. Washington spurned the proposition with the remark that double the amount would not affect the management. Then came Baltimore with $1,800 in hand, and New York carrying $2,000 bright and shining silver pieces but Washington could not be moved. In Mercer the club had a player, and there was no such word as give him up so long as he proved such a valuable addition to the team. With every game the young pitcher became more famous. Thousands flocked to see him, and this evening he is a player who is climbing that same old ladder of fame at a rate that would cause astonishment even from such men as Baldwin, Kelley and a dozen others whose day on the diamond is over.

But Winnie Mercer will not fall because of his love of self. He is a quiet, unassuming, unostentatious young man with as much good sense in his head as can be found in any professional player. Straightforward and honest, he is a model of good behavior, the foaming cup will never lead him to his athletic ruin. He is a member of the Young Men's Christian association, and a boy in whom his friends in this city have the utmost confidence. Hard work and a firm determination have placed him where he now stands, and it is the earnest belief of those who know him best that the time is not far distant when he will be recognized as the one great player of America's national game.

IT WAS FUNNY.

The Legal-Religious Combination Gets a Calling Down.

There was genuine amusement in Squire Manley's court yesterday afternoon while the case of L. C. Graves versus Joseph Walters was being tried.

This case was one of the aged variety and was tried recently to a jury and Squire Travis. Graves sued for $50 and interest, $53.29 in all, and Walters had a counter claim of $23. The jury returned a verdict giving Graves judgment for $26.75. Plaintiff asked for a new trial and it was granted, and the attorney for the defense, asked for a change of venue to Squire Manley's court. The following new jury was selected: Henry Joseph, M. Anderson, B. C. Simms, Will Brindley, J. C. Kerr and W. H. Ferguson. Among the witnesses were Squires Travis and Rose and all the jurors of the preceding trial. A. W. Stevenson was put on the stand and the reverend attorney began bantering him.

"I believe you act as detective in some cases, don't you?"

"I do when such people as you are in it," was the reply.

"Just so, and might I ask if you and such people?"

"No," replied Stevenson, "you are the only one of your kind in town."

"Well, what do you find when you hunt such people as me?" persisted the questioner.

"Nothing," concluded Stevenson, and the roar of laughter which followed threatened to burst the window panes.

Then the reverend attorney arose in his wrath and the side show continued. The jury was out until 9 o'clock and returned a verdict of $18.75 for the plaintiff. J. J. Parinton and H. E. Grosshans were attorneys for the plaintiff.

COUNTY COURTS.

An Interesting Budget of News From New Lisbon.

New LISBON, Sept. 10.—John Pitcairn, of this place, commenced proceedings on a promissory note this morning in common pleas court against J. H. and G. S. Sheller. The note calls for $35.63, secured by a chattel mortgage on the boiler, engine and all the implements, fixtures etc., used in a shop belonging to the defendants, also on two cows and two horses and harness. This mortgage is asked to be foreclosed and the property sold to satisfy the claim.

Sheriff Lodge arrested George Wallace and Jessie Fraser today and took them before Judge Young charged with cohabiting. They plead not guilty and will endeavor to prove it Friday, when they will stand trial. Wallace is a son of the late Judge Wallace and for a number of years has lived with Jessie as her husband.

A transcript on appeal from Squire Tobly's court, of Leetonia, was filed today, appealing to this court the case of James Kridler versus James B. Bertolette. Kridler was given judgment last month for $29.53 and $5.95 costs on an account for labor and material furnished by him for Bertolette.

Licenses were issued today to Sumner S. LaFere and Rosa Behe-man, Albert L. Coulter and Susan C. Brenamen.

And Still They Come.

Scarcely a day goes by without a few people being added to the population of the city, and we are steadily growing larger. Today the household goods of Homer Barnes arrived from Steubenville, and those of Mrs. B. Wright came in from Allegheny, while Julius Esalt's were brought from Bridgeport. All these acquisitions count, and it will not be many months before the city is larger than ever.

Transgressors are Few.

Those who transgress the law are few. Only one prisoner crows in solitude at city hall, and justice has nothing whatever to do.

MR. DAVIES IS IN TOWN

Council Will Talk With Him Tonight.

HAD NO PROPOSITION TO MAKE

When He Talked It Over With Members of the City Council Last Night—He is Waiting to Hear What the City Will Do—Claims Committee Have a Meeting.

Secretary Davies, of the street railway company, is in town, and will talk over affairs with council tonight.

If the program had been carried out there would have been a meeting with the committee last evening, but there were claims against the city to look after, and it was not until 9 o'clock that councilmen knew the secretary was ready for a meeting. But when they did eventually find him it was not to do any particular work, as it was generally understood that the representative of the company did not have power to act. However, they talked about things past and things present. It was simply an informal talk, and every one had his say regarding the differences as they exist between the city and the company. Mr. Davies, apparently, was not there for the purpose of making any proposition to the city, he was there to hear what proposition the councilmen had to put forward. It was naturally understood that the secretary would remain in town until the meeting of council tonight, was over, and there is a possibility that some understanding will be reached. The many vexed questions are growing in number, and it has become necessary for the city and company to have some arrangement whereby all can be made satisfied. Council meets tonight in its regular session.

AN IMMENSE CROWD

Taking In the Grand Army Encampment From This City.

Yesterday morning and afternoon, as detailed in the News Review, about 200 people left for Pittsburg to attend the Grand Army encampment. Last night 53 more purchased tickets and tied themselves to the Smoky City. Ticket Agent Hill only sold about 200 tickets last night for the 5 o'clock train this morning, but he is well enough acquainted with the general public to know that most of them wait until the last minute to buy a railroad ticket, and made arrangements accordingly. He sold 320 tickets for the 5 o'clock east bound train and 188 for the 8:10 train. A total of 508. Altogether this means that there are at least 700 East Liverpool people in the Grand Army city today.

OUT ALL NIGHT.

A New Lisbon Jury Fails to Agree—One Sentence.

Special to News Review.

New LISBON, Sept. 11.—Louis Vaughan, a bartender, was tried before a jury in Judge Young's court yesterday for resisting and assaulting Officer Castello. The jury were out almost all night but could not agree.

Thomas McCann, of Leetonia, did not get off so easily. He was charged with assaulting Anthony Gavin and injuring him severely. The jury decided that he was guilty, and Judge Young imposed 15 days in jail, $20 fine and the costs.

Coxey Will Debate.

Although Mr. Smith had not been notified by Coxey last night the "general" has decided to accept his challenge. To a reporter he said:

"I have gone to great expense in preparing my canvass tent, in which to campaign through the Eighteenth district, and my plans are already made to speak in that tent until election day. I am willing to discuss the cause of the present business depression and the remedy with Mr. Smith, and how the good roads and non-interest bearing bond bills will give immediate relief, dividing the time, claiming two hours for myself, my opponent to have the same, at such place as may suit his convenience."

Will Entertain.

Mrs. Fred Timmons has issued a number of invitations, and will entertain at Rock Springs from three in the afternoon until seven in the evening, Friday of this week.

Off Duty.

Homer Clark, one of the clerks at the local freight depot, is off duty today and confined to his home seriously ill.

STONE SHOVED QUEER.

A Warrant Out For the Mississippi Governor.

OTHER OFFICIALS IMPLICATED.

They Are Accused of Unlawfully and Feloniously Making the Likeness of National Bank Currency—The State Legislature Authorized It.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 11.—Warrants have been sworn out for the arrest of the following state officers of Mississippi: J. M. Stone, governor; W. W. Stone, auditor; and J. J. Evans, state treasurer.

William J. Burns, special agent of the secret service bureau at Washington, who has been here for the past two months working on the special warrant case, made affidavits before Commissioner L. B. The warrant was placed in the hands of United Marshal J. McNeely. Auditor Stone appeared before the commissioner and entered into personal recognizance of $1,000 for his appearance at the November term of the federal court for examination. The warrants have not been served on Governor Stone, who was officially engaged, nor on State Treasurer Evans, who is out of the city. However, they will be served on the governor today and the treasurer when he returns.

The charges allege that on the 15th day of June, 1894, the aforesaid mentioned state officials did unlawfully and feloniously at Jackson, Miss., and not by direction of any proper officer of the United States, print, photograph, and cause to be printed, photographed and made certain photograph print and impression on the likeness of national bank currency of said United States.

The warrants were issued in accordance with an act passed by the last legislature making it the official duty of these officers to execute the same. Their issuance was rendered necessary by a deficiency in the state treasury.

Poe Badly Hurt.

The man Poe, who was struck by a street car at Lythe's yesterday afternoon, was taken to his home in Wellsville and a physician called. It was found that his injuries were worse than was the general opinion, and today he is feeling very sore. The wheels did not touch him, but when knocked down he was badly bruised and somewhat scratched. Although quite ill, it is believed that he will recover fully from the accident.
Later—It is reported here this afternoon that he cannot recover.

They Continue to Lease.

The men who have been leasing land from farmers in the West Point vicinity have moved farther away from the village, but are making leases almost every day. They say that it will not be long until the machinery is brought in and the land given a thorough test. Among others who have been attracted to the spot are several local capitalists who are doing what they can to obtain a few leases. If oil is found the papers will become valuable property.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a serious time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had had colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by A. H. Bulger, Druggist.

They Crossed the River.

When the two men, mentioned in the News Review yesterday as being discovered by the police while playing cards on the river beach, saw that desperate methods must be used to elude the law they ran to the water and getting into a boat were soon afloat. Officer Supplee attempted to prevent the action, but the men had a good start and knew how to keep it. Their arrest is only a question of time.

Irving W. Larimore, physical director of Young Men's Christian association Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by A. H. Bulger, Druggist.

TO THE PUBLIC.

If you want the News Review delivered at your home every evening send a postal card, on which your address is clearly written, to this office.

A Queer Copper Mine.

"There are many kinds of mines and numerous inventions for saving precious metals," said Professor L. E. Waring of Omaha, "but the strangest one I ever heard of is at Butte, Mon. When mines were first discovered in that locality, it was found that the water contained in the fissures was so strongly impregnated with copper in solution that tools of all kinds were quickly destroyed by the affinity of the copper for the iron. For a long time the water pumped out of the mine went to waste, as no method was known of extracting the copper from it. After awhile a discovery was made that is being used to good advantage. Some tin cans found their way into the small stream. In a short time it was noticed that they had every appearance of being made of pure copper, so thickly were they covered with that metal. In noting this fact, one man resolved to try an experiment. He immediately purchased the exclusive right to the water. Then he put in a series of reservoirs and tanks along the little gully where the water ran. These he filled with all the old metal to be had in the town including old barrel hoops. At the end of six months he found that the old junk was totally destroyed and in its place was a solid monetary deposit in the bottom of the reservoirs which was sold for copper."—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

"Sugar" in Parliament.

The Encyclopedia Britannica is a authority for the following account of the speeches delivered in the house of commons by the elder Pitt, afterward earl of Chatham.
It is related of him that once in the house of commons he began a speech with the words, "Sugar, Mr. Speaker," and then, observing a smile to prevail in the audience, he paused looked fiercely around, and with a loud voice, rising in its notes and swelling into vehement anger, he said to have pronounced again the word "sugar" three times and having thus quelled the house and extinguished every appearance of levity or laughter turned round and disdainfully asked, "What will laugh at sugar now?"

A Visiting Volunteer Ill.

Yesterday John Shurts came to this city from Indiana. He is a veteran on his way to attend the encampment in Pittsburgh, but thought he would stop a day here and visit his niece, Mrs. Frank Pittenger, of Lincoln avenue. While here he was taken ill, and being unable to continue the journey decided to remain in the city. He was better today.

Come Back and Get the Other.

A thief who was looking for spoil the other day stole a single shoe from in front of an uptown store. When the proprietor, who has a splendid vein of humor, discovered his loss he put the other shoe out, and now asks that the stealer come around and take it away as soon as possible.

Bought a Blooded Horse.

There arrived in the city this morning a horse distinguished from its fellows by a long line of blooded ancestors. He is the property of D. E. McNicol, and came from Youngstown. Although but a yearling the animal gives promise of great speed and beauty.

Bound For the West.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. ### BOUGHT FREEDOM WITH DEATH.

Nez Perce Horses Followed Their Leader Over the Cliff.

The hardy little Nez Perce horse is quite well known in a way, but few people know what remarkable courage and sagacity he has. When the Indian war swept the Nez Perce country, the Indians gathered about 5,000 horses into a valley that fronted on the steep bluffs of the Columbia river, and there, with the great white mountains at their back, prepared to make their last desperate stand.

In the battle that followed they were defeated, and the small fraction of them that remained unkilld put to flight. The horses, shut in by the steep mountains on the one side and the steep river bluff on the other, had to be left behind.

When the battle had closed, the soldiers of the volunteers (for only a part were regulars) made a rush for the horses, but they could not lay hands on one of them or approach them.

And now for the first time it was noticed that they were under a boy herder. The boy was unarmed, entirely naked and as red as copper.

The boy had no bridle, but wove his hands into the mane, and thus guided his black horse at will at the head of the herd.

The volunteers dropped on their knees here and there around the edge of the circle and began to fire at the boy. At last a bullet struck him. His body flew high into the air and then fell and rolled in the dust.

The horses now divided as they came by. Their nostrils were distended at the smell of blood, and their eyes ablaze at the sight of their young keeper in the dust.

On the second round, after the boy fell, the black leader seemed to run sideways, his eyes fastened to his little dead master until they looked frightful from under the black mane.

He plunged on around and came to the very edge of the beetling basalt bluff. Then there was a sight as of a sculptured image of a horse poised in midair, and a mad, wild cry, such as a horse makes but once—a cry indescribable—that filled the valley.

Men looked away, and when they looked back the black statue was gone. Then, faithful to the leader, over the bluff into the foaming white water went another horse.

And then 10, 50, 500, the whole 5,000! Not one of all the herd was left to the invading victors, and the stream was literally choked with the dead.—Joaquin Miller.

PORTLAND'S SMALLEST HOUSE.

Three Rooms Crowded Into Space Not Large For One.

For upward of 10 years Portland has had within its corporate limits one of the smallest dwelling houses in this broad land of ours. At first glance it might be mistaken for a playhouse, as it stands alone in the center of the block on Northrup street, between Nineteenth and Twentieth.

The place has a history, and many of Portland's residents have made themselves familiar with it by personal inquiry and investigation. About 10 years ago, so the story goes, a seafaring man happened in the northwest portion of the city before streets had been opened and graded, and, struck by the beauty of the surroundings, determined to build himself an abode in which to pass his declining years.

The builder endeavored to make his home as much like ships' quarters as possible, and in this he succeeded admirably. The house contains three rooms—kitchen, dining room and bedroom—and occupies a patch of ground about 10 by 12 feet. It stands about 9 feet in height. The kitchen is just large enough to accommodate a cook stove and table, and the dining room is sufficiently large to allow two persons to move about. The parlor and bedroom combined contains a couch, two chairs and a table and resembles the stateroom of an ocean steamer. The bed, or berth, is located three or four feet above the floor on a chest of drawers and is hidden from view by handsome lace draperies. By lowering a panel on the opposite side of the room a bright array of china-ware is exposed to view, and the panel itself may be used as a table or writing shelf.—Portland Telegram.

May Outshine Her Mother.

The little daughter of Harriet A. Ketchum, the late Iowa sculptress, is said to already display marked artistic ability. Unlike her mother, however, her sensitive nature finds its best expression in music rather than clay and marble. This little girl it was who was born to Mrs. Ketchum shortly after the completion of the famous statue of the "Peri" in Rome, and who thus has every right to share in her mother's love of art. Her name is, romantically enough, Roma Beatrice, and it was her small fingers that unveiled the "Peri" at the World's fair last year, the logical reward having been given to her state building. Mrs. Ketchum's last and largest achievement—a magnificent design for a soldiers' monument, completed just before her death in 1890—is one of the "sights" of Burlington, Ia.

The Boy Agassiz.

Louis Agassiz was so expert a fisherman when a little boy he could catch them in his hand, fascinating them first by strange motions of his fingers. He kept a number of pet fish in a stone basin behind his father's house and was clever at taming field mice and all sorts of little animals and insects. He was an expert little cobbler and cooper, could make water tight barrels as well as a man and manufactured pretty shoes for his sisters' dolls.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

He Was Tender.

"Young Mr. Softy paralyzed Dr. Simton when he went to be vaccinated," observed Gaswell to Dukane.
"How was that?"
"He asked the doctor to put him under the influence of an anesthetic."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Brought Her Repartee Along.

Just as the door of the city clerk's office was due to be closed for the day two young ladies called and stated that they were looking for a marriage license.

"This is not the place," explained the sober faced clerk. "The clerk of the court issues them at the courthouse, but you are too late to get down there before he goes home."

"Isn't that provoking?" remarked one of the maidens, with a pout equally provoking. "They told us that this was the place to get licenses."

"It is—dog licenses," the facetious clerk answered.
"The license is for me, not you, sir," answered the girl, and a deep hush fell over the city seal.—Minneapolis Journal.

Napoleon's Poison.

A curious detail of Napoleon Bonaparte's costume was the religious care with which he kept hung around his neck the little leather envelope, shaped like a heart, which contained poison that was to liberate him in case of irretrievable reverses of fortune. This poison was prepared after a recipe that Cabanis had given to Corvisart, and after the year 1808 the emperor never undertook a campaign without having his little packet of poison.

Energy and Content.

Energy and content are not opposite terms. It is the lazy man usually who is discontented. When a person really wants to do something in the world and goes about it resolutely, the effort gives a satisfaction that nothing else will. True content is found only with busy people.—Womankind.
